

SUPERVISORS HOLD SHORT MEETING

COUNTY OFFICERS ORDERED TO USE REPORT FORM; SEVEN-TON
TRUCK LOAD LIMIT PLACED ON PESCADERO-SANTA CRUZ ROAD.

Because of the members of the board being named as defendants in an action in the superior court, the supervisors held a short meeting Monday in order that they could be in court by 1 o'clock.

One of the first matters taken up followed an address by District Attorney Swart in the interest of a new report approved by the San Mateo County Police Association. The object of this form is to make uniform the reports of accidents and felonies by officers of the peace. These are to be rendered in triplicate, one to the reporting officer's superior, one to the sheriff and one to the district attorney. The county clerk was instructed to communicate with constables of the county and tell them to use the form of report recommended.

Reports were received from the county clerk, tax collector, license collector, sheriff, jail, horticultural commissioner, health officer, and also from County Traffic Officers Logan, Dalziel, and Bond. All were ordered filed.

An invitation was received from H. J. Brunner, president, and Louis E. Goodman, secretary, of the Lake Merced Golf and Country Club, inviting the board to attend the ground-breaking of the new links. The clerk was instructed to address a letter to the club, thanking the officers for the invitation.

A proposed ordinance covering the weight of loads on the Pescadero to Santa Cruz county line road was read. Supervisor Hickey stated that it was his opinion that all coast roads should be in Group I, as covered by the present ordinance, which limits the weight of loads on roads other than concrete to seven tons. Instructions were issued to have the proposed new ordinance amended to include the road from Colma to Montara and from Halfmoon Bay to the Santa Cruz county line, the weight limit to be seven tons.

The regular monthly statement of the condition of the county treasury was filed by County Treasurer P. P. Chamberlain.

Relative to a complaint from residents of Belmont that a private sanitarium had been established there in a residence, District Attorney Swart advised the board that the sanitarium referred to should be required to secure a permit in accordance with the county ordinance. No action was taken by the board.

Tax Collector A. McSweeney reported to the board in regard to the taxes levied against Mary Hodges, stating that there was no refund due.

The board adjourned to Monday, March 13th.

WOMAN'S CLUB TO HOLD BENEFIT FOOD SALE

The Woman's Club will hold a food sale Saturday, March 18th, for the benefit of the House of Friendship, a girls' refuge home in San Francisco. The sale will be at the office of E. E. Cunningham & Co., and Mrs. F. A. Cunningham is chairman of the committee in charge.

Milk-Shake-Up.

"You are charged with selling adulterated milk," said the judge.

"Your honor, I plead not guilty."

"But the testimony shows that it was 25 per cent water."

"Then it must be high grade milk," returned the plaintiff. "If your honor will look up the word 'milk' in the cyclopeda, you will find that it contains from 80 to 90 per cent water. I should have sold it for cream."

COURT DECISION ANNULS ELECTION

Supervisors Criticised for Dates Set for Sanitary District Elections;
Election Officers Arrested.

For probably the first time in the history of San Mateo county an order from the superior court this week annulled the action of the board of supervisors in calling an election on the very eve of the election. The order was issued by Judge George H. Buck Monday annulling the action of the board that called for an election Tuesday, March 7th, for the formation of "Fair Oaks Sanitary District of San Mateo County," near Redwood City. And because of the court action which they chose to ignore, John Goetzheim, Emma M. Werder, and Laura May Harnden, election officers, found themselves under arrest and later paid fines of $50 each.

The trouble arose over a conflict between two proposed sanitary districts for each which the supervisors ordered an election held. The two were Fair Oaks district and Washington district. The election for the Washington district was called for April 1st. Attorneys J. J. Bullock and Arthur Kincaid, representing Kenneth Murray, sought the annulment of the order for the Fair Oaks district, while District Attorney Swart and J. H. Machado represented the supervisors. Judge Buck's decision favored the annulment of the Fair Oaks election order. The Washington district election will now be held, and should it fail to carry the other proposition may be resurrected.

In rendering his decision Judge Buck criticised the supervisors for calling the Fair Oaks district election before the other, when the Washington district takes in the territory of the Fair Oaks section.

In spite of the court action the election officers opened the polls Tuesday morning, whereupon they were gathered in by Undersheriff H. K. Lampkin and the election supplies seized.

REESE LLOYD INJURED AT STEEL MILL MONDAY

Well-Know Steelworker Has Right Hand Mangled in Roll.

Reese Lloyd, roller at the steel mill and well-known citizen of this city, is under care of Dr. F. S. Dolley at the South San Francisco Hospital as the result of an accident at the mill Monday morning. Mr. Lloyd's injuries consist of a badly mangled right hand, the member having become caught in one of the rolls.

The stories told by those in the mill at the time of Lloyd's accident differ somewhat, but the best available version seems to be that the roller stepped on a plate or board which tipped and threw him against the machine. Lloyd threw out his right hand, which was drawn into the roll. The injured man was hurried to the hospital, where he has been since under the constant care of the doctor.

MEAT PACKERS BRING SUIT AGAINST S. P. COMPANY

The Western Meat Company, the Oakland Meat and Packing Company and Miller & Lux, Inc., brought complaints before the Railroad Commission Tuesday against the Southern Pacific, Western Pacific, Santa Fe and Northwestern Pacific to recover fare paid by caretakers in case of cattle shipments. The complainants set forth that under the tariffs established by the companies caretakers are entitled to be carried free when accompanying two or more carloads of livestock and also to free return transportation. The Western Meat Company and the Oakland Meat and Packing Company asked for $700 reparation and Miller & Lux for $566.02.

ATTEMPTED HOLDUP ON BAY SHORE FAILS

Five Bullets Fired After Fleeing Car
Which Had Failed to Stop.

Once more the Bay Shore road has sustained its bad reputation for holdups. This time Enrico Colombo of South San Francisco was the intended victim, and that he was not robbed is largely due to his ability to take the curves on the winding hill road at a fast rate of speed. As it is, his car bears the marks of a bullet fired after its fleeing form.

Colombo was returning to his home from San Francisco Sunday night between 10 and 11 o'clock. On the hill north of South San Francisco and just beyond the first tunnel, several men attempted to stop the Colombo car with flashlights. Suspecting a holdup, the driver increased his pace and dashed toward town. The men in the road opened fire and shot five times after the fleeing car, only one of the bullets finding its mark, this striking a fender.

Colombo drove into town, got Night Watchmen McGraw and Boloni in his car, and returned to the scene of the attempted holdup, but the highwaymen had disappeared.

W. P. FULLER CO. DENIED CLAIM AGAINST S. P.

W. P. Fuller & Co. was denied a claim of reparation against the Southern Pacific Company by the Railroad Commission Wednesday. The complainant asked reparation of 5 cents per 100 pounds on shipments of twenty-four carloads of fuel oil from San Francisco to South San Francisco from September 1, 1920, to July 31, 1921. The decision points out that the rate complained of was established under the United States railroad administration, and declares that reparation should not be awarded on rates made effective during the period when the railroads were operated by the government as a war emergency measure. The rate complained of was cured in the commission's decision of last July in the San Francisco switching case.

WESTERN MEAT EMPLOYEE BREAKS LEG IN FALL

Alfred Reynolds, an employee of the Western Meat Company, was brought to the local hospital last Friday suffering from a broken leg, sustained while loading a barrel on a car at the packing plant. Reynolds was transferring the barrel to the car by means of a plank, and the plank slipped at one end, letting the man fall between the platform and the car.

HAVE YOU REGISTERED?

Saturday is the last day on which to get your name on the register for the city election which will be held April 10th. If you have not registered you should do so without further delay in order that you may express your choice among those who will run for the office of city trustee and also upon the proposition of sewer extension for this city, which will appear upon the ballot.
Two city trusteeships are to be filled at this election, the terms of F. A. Cunningham and A. J. Eschelbach expiring. So far only Messrs. Eschelbach and Cunningham have announced themselves as candidates, each being out to succeed himself. A number of others have been expected to appear, but so far have not announced themselves.
The plan to extend the city sewerage system to include several factories in the northern part of town is a most important one. It is a city improvement that is much needed and a direct step forward. The extension may cost nearly $40,000, but a plan is being worked out to extend the bond payments over a term of years, and the burden on the taxpayers will be very light indeed. You should vote in favor of this bond issue.
BUT YOU CAN'T VOTE UNLESS YOU REGISTER!

BANDITS' VICTIM DIES OF INJURIES

Edward Hamilton, Shot in Holdup of Garage, Dies of Wounds.

After a valiant fight for his life that has lasted two months, Ed Hamilton, employee of the Depot Garage, who was shot by bandits the night of January 10th, died last Friday night. His funeral took place from the Neri undertaking parlors Sunday afternoon. Services were held at the parlors by Father James P. Moran of All Souls' Church, the burial being at Holy Cross Cemetery. Hamilton was 65 years of age. No relatives have been found, and Fred J. Lautze, his former employer, took charge of his funeral.

Hamilton's shooting was one of the most cowardly in the history of South San Francisco. He was alone in the garage the night of January 10th, when two bandits entered and ordered him to hold up his hands. Thinking the two men were joking, Hamilton did not do as they ordered quickly enough to suit, and one of them shot him down in cold blood, the bullet piercing his abdomen. The robbers then tied Hamilton hand and foot, and he remained fastened to the wall of the garage until the return of Mr. Lautze over an hour later.

Immediately on his discovery the night of the shooting, Hamilton was rushed to the South San Francisco Hospital. His condition was such that his life was despaired of. Everything possible was done for him, however, by Dr. F. S. Dolley and assistants, and Hamilton seemed on the high road to recovery, when last week complications set in and his death followed.

The perpetrators of the dastardly shooting have never been apprehended. Should they be taken, a charge of murder will now be placed against them.

MIRACLE SAVES FOUR AS CAR PLUNGES DOWN MOUNTAIN

Four residents of San Francisco were saved from death as by a miracle Tuesday morning, when the large car in which they were riding left the road on Pedro mountain and plunged to the bottom of a ravine, 300 feet below. The machine is said to have turned over several times in the descent, and the impact when it landed right side up was so great that the wheels collapsed.

The injured are: Mr. and Mrs. H. Andre, 900 Jackson street; severe bruises and lacerations. C. Aubrey, 550 California street; bruises.

Mrs. A. Grayson, 983 California street; serious internal injuries.

Dr. A. H. Rankin of Daly City administered emergency treatment to the four and rushed them to the South San Francisco Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Andre and C. Aubrey were able to leave after having their wounds dressed. Mrs. Grayson's injuries were serious and she was later removed to a San Francisco hospital near her home.

It is stated by Constable S. A. Landini that another car crowded the machine which Andre was driving off the road.

SKULL FRACTURED IN HIGHWAY ACCIDENT

Car Driven by San Francisco Man
Skids and Turns Over.

Joseph H. Rosenberg of San Francisco suffered a fractured skull Sunday afternoon when the car he was driving skidded from the highway near Tanforan, struck a telephone pole, and turned over in the ditch.

According to City Marshal A. G. Meehan of San Bruno, who investigated the accident, Rosenberg was taken to St. Luke's Hospital in San Francisco in a passing automobile. If he was accompanied by others at the time of the accident, they disappeared immediately.

However, Meehan was informed that Rosenberg was driving south on the highway and apparently lost control of his car when the pavement became slippery from the rain. From the appearance of the telephone pole and the automobile, it is supposed that the car was traveling at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred.

Last Sunday evening a surprise party was given in Mrs. Purnell's honor by Daly City friends.

TRUSTEES NAME OFFICERS FOR ELECTION

SEVEN PRECINCTS MERGED IN TWO; LOS CERRITOS RESIDENTS
ASK ROAD REPAIRS; OWNERS
SAN BRUNO ROAD WANT LIGHTS

The fixing of polling places and the naming of election officers for the municipal election to be held April 10th was one of the interesting features of Monday evening's meeting of the city trustees. All members were present at the meeting when City Clerk Daniel McSweeney called the roll.

The seven precincts in which this city was divided for the last county election were consolidated into two, the polling places being the basement of the city hall and the justice of the peace courtroom in the Metropolitan building. At the former place the election officers are as follows: Inspector, Delia W. Scott; judges, Mrs. Anna Woodman and Emma Daneri; clerks, Mary Di Vita and Lucetta Hardy. At the latter place the officers named are: Inspector, Charles Mercks; judges, William Rehberg and M. Foley; clerks, K. Harder and H. F. McNellis.

The residents of the Los Cerritos tract near Baden crossing want better road connection with South San Francisco. This was set forth in a petition signed by Daniel O'Neill, Jack Aricci, Emilia Podesta, Vincenzo Corruccini, L. Spinelli, T. Geapi, A. Pera, A. Corruccini, and N. Agresti. The petition urged the extension and improvement of Oak avenue on Chestnut avenue, in order that the residents of this section could get to town more readily in wet weather and their children more conveniently reach the schools here. The matter was referred to the street committee.

A petition from six property owners on San Bruno road asked to have the blocks between Grand and Lux avenues included in the proposed electric lighting system. This was signed by P. Pala, M. Castiglio, A. Locatelli, Richard Harder, Roderick Tibbitts, and Charles Steuermann. This was referred to the lighting committee, A. J. Eschelbach and F. A. Cunningham.

The plan of the County Police Officers' Association to have a county criminal identification bureau established was endorsed by the board.

A letter from Night Watchman H. McGraw and Louis Belloni, asking the city to provide an auto for their use, was laid over to the next meeting.

LOTS IN DALY CITY TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION SUNDAY

Everything is in readiness for the auction sale of the seventy-five residence sites and business lots in the Vista Grande tract, Daly City, and at 2 o'clock sharp next Sunday afternoon the auctioneer will call for bids, and lot after lot will be knocked down in quick succession to the highest bidder.

Before calling off bids, however, the terms and conditions of the sale will be carefully read, so that every prospective buyer will be made familiar with the conditions of the sale.

All taxes and assessments which at the time of sale are due and payable will be paid by the selling company, so that a perfectly clear title will be given to every purchaser.

The lots will be sold by lot ad block number. It is therefore advisable for prospective purchasers to inspect the property prior to the time of sale and make a note of the block and lot number of the lots they propose to bid upon, so that when the auctioneer calls for bids every would-be buyer will be thoroughly familiar with the lot he is bidding on.

It is seldom that property of this character with all street work done is offered at an unreserved auction, and it is anticipated that many home-seekers as well as investors will take advantage of this opportunity of picking up bargains.

The maid, it appears, is not the only one who changes her name when she marries. The bachelor becomes a benedict.

IS LAND WITHOUT ARTISTS

In Country of Vivid Beauty, the Arab Knows Nothing of Pictures of Any Kind.

That the religion of the Arab forbids him to make a picture of any living thing has had a somewhat startling effect. Forbidden to portray anything that has life, says Mr. Willard Price in Travel, the Arab has apparently thought it not worth his while to portray more inanimate objects. Thus the land of the Arab, though it blazes with light and color that would make an artist's fingers itch, is virtually a pictureless land.

Indeed, unless a native has been much among Europeans he will scarcely understand a picture when he sees one. A traveler once proudly showed an Arab a photograph of his little girl. The Arab, supposing that he was looking at a likeness of the traveler's wife, remarked, "She is indeed a beautiful woman!" He could not determine size in a picture.

But curiously enough there are pictures on a wall of the bey's palace at Constantine in Algeria. Ships, forts and houses are painted there so crudely that at first any spectator might naturally suppose that a child had done them. But it seems that an old-time bey, one El Hadj Ahmed, careless of the Koran and its laws, brought a French captive up from the dungeons, gave him paint pots and brushes and, setting him in front of the wall, ordered him forthwith to adorn it with pictures.

"But I am not an artist; I am a cobbler," the prisoner objected.

"All Frenchmen are artists," insisted the bey. "You shall receive twenty-five lashes a day until you begin. But if you make pretty pictures for us you shall go free."

The cobbler promptly turned artist and created what are perhaps the most childish daubs that adorn any palace wall in the world. But the bey thought they were pretty and set the shoemaker free.

Music By Wireless.

Persons who ride on ether waves must take precautions not to rock the boat. Music by wireless has charm when conflicting vibrations are kept apart. Recently Strauss music was transmitted to a receiving station in New York, where a soloist was to accompany it. The guests, including Richard Strauss himself, waited expectantly.

But the transmission was badly timed. Instead of the sober melodies expected, the ragtime of another subscriber came from the transmitter, says the New York Herald. The embarrassment of the wireless operator can easily be imagined.

Perhaps music transmission by wireless will be so perfected that churches will subscribe for their Handel and Bach, to be delivered much as stock quotations are supplied by the ticker. Dance halls in the same way may receive their rag and jazz from the ether.

The mishap of the Strauss melodies, though, might be disastrous on a larger scale. A church might invite a special accompanist for the wireless music. Imagine the confusion should the wireless waves bring in "Breezy Breezes" instead of the Bach oratorio expected.

British Cabinet Councils.

Trade union rules do not apply in Downing street, or the British government would not have adopted the unusual course of having a cabinet meeting on Sunday to discuss one of the latest phases of the Irish question. There have been Sunday sittings of the house—one of them was held to protest against Charles I going to Scotland—but Sunday cabinets are so uncommon as to be included in the "freak" meetings of that powerful body. The most unusual of the kind was that held by Pitt, who being confined to his bed at his house at Hayes, sent for the Duke of Newcastle to come and see him there. The room had two beds but no fire, so that the duke crept under the clothes of a bed in another part of the room. Walpole says that Pitt's long nose and his black beard of several days' growth added to the grotesque nature of the scene.—Christian Science Monitor.

CONGRESSMAN FREE NOW

From the letters which have been received recently from Congressman Free, one might suppose that he had suddenly become aged and decrepit, as the writing is such as comes from the pen of an aged person. Mr. Free denies, however, that he has aged so considerably, although he admits to a few additional gray hairs through his endeavors to cut down taxation despite the insistent demands of constituents to spend money.

The fact is that some time ago Mr. Free struck his right elbow on a piece of iron, injuring the bone, and since that time he has been forced to carry his arm in a sling, making it necessary for him to write with his left hand.

Apparently the congressman will be thus handicapped for some four to six weeks, and may possibly have to submit to an operation. The congressman's troubles, like his children, do not seem to come singly, as he is just recovering from a severe attack of tonsillitis which confined him to his home for several days.

LOCATE PORTER A. FRAZEE

The Red Cross is making an effort to locate Porter A. Frazee, a Veterans' Bureau trainee, who has not been seen since he left his home at 3793 Oregon street, San Diego, Monday morning, February 20th. He had recently been transferred from Ontario, Calif., to continue training under the San Diego office of the Veterans' Bureau.

He told his wife, when he left home, that he expected to be away until late that night as he thought one of the men from the Veterans' Bureau would take him out to look at a place suitable for him to buy as a poultry ranch. His wife can give no explanation except possibly foul play, or that he may have suffered a mental lapse. He had complained of severe headaches, but was apparently well when last seen.

Any information concerning Frazee may be reported to the Red Cross chapter in San Diego or to the Pacific division office, Civic Auditorium, San Francisco, Calif.

HALE TO THE END

Old Chronicles Tell of Some Remarkable Centenarians.

According to Newspapers and Magazines of the Last Century They Were a Rugged Lot.

Tales of the prodigious feats of centenarian and near-centenarian ancestors have been handed down in many families for generations, until now they are accepted only as the fanciful dreams of the aged, exaggerated by retelling. A study of old magazines and newspapers, however, shows that during the Eighteenth and early Nineteenth centuries, remarkable mental and physical powers were attributed to very aged people.

Many such stories are found in the "intimations of death" found in old English newspapers. The custom in those days was to give in these notices a brief outline of the activities of the deceased as well as his position in life. These notices gave quaint pictures of life of the times, as they recorded the death of many well-known men and women they have great historical value.

Early volumes of Blackwood's Magazine tell of many instances of men and women attaining the age of 120 and even 130 years. A writer in The Scotsman who selects a few interesting examples from Blackwood's tells of the death of Mr. Ditrane of Galway in his 120th year. "To the last he could read without glasses, and until the last three or four years could walk some miles a day."

An entry on May 27, 1920, shows that Anna McRae, the widow of a Kintail farmer, died at the age of 112. The notice concludes, "Not many months ago she could run a race with any of her sex of the third and fourth generation." The notices record the death of a colored woman in Jamaica at the age of 140 and another at 130 years.

One unusual record concerns the death of William Heginbottom at the age of 95. The intimation states "He was father of ten, father-in-law to ten, grandfather to 131, great-grandfather to 153, great-great-grandfather to one, in all 305, the last of whom he walked 32 miles to see in his ninetyeth year."

Margaret McDougal, who died in Garth in 1823 in her 103d year, was also a woman of extraordinary vigor. "When above 100," the notice reads, "she thought little of walking from her own house to Weem or Aberfeldy, a distance of seven miles, and returning before breakfast. Last year she traveled to Drummond castle, which is 30 miles distant, and returned the next day."

Harvard's Navy.

Did you know that at one time Harvard college had a navy? It was during the War of 1812. Once a year the navy made a triumphant cruise of Boston harbor, and it was on one of these annual joy rides that the members of this gallant crew got a distinct shock; they were captured by the British. By mistake their little boat got outside the harbor and was snapped up by the British blockading squadron.

They were confronted by the terrible thought of what was going to happen to them. But instead of being hung as spies, they were actually banqueting by their enemies. The British officers were probably tired of their own company, and here was an opportunity for a good time. That was before the eighteenth amendment. By the time it was time to go home, the Harvard navy had to be slung over the sides of the British vessel in the slings which were used to bring the horses aboard, and how their own ship got back to port will forever remain a mystery.

Rabbit Sandwiches Are Good.

Oakdale, a hamlet near Othello, Wash., is known as the sandwich town of the Northwest. Overland trains stop at Oakdale and there are always many hungry folk on board.

Comely lasses, wearing white aprons, enter the cars or sell from the platform an endless variety of sandwiches, said by experienced travelers to beat anything ever seen elsewhere.

The trains are delayed long enough so that all west-bound tourists have an opportunity to taste Oakdale's newest and most popular sandwiches, jackrabbit or sage hen. The roasted meat of these two local products, besmeared with butter and comforted between two slices of fresh bread, are the temptation placed before newcomers.

For 15 cents a traveler may buy one of thirty varieties of sandwiches, each as large as a pie plate.—New York Sun.

Suspicious Conduct.

"No wonder the Gadders don't get along well together. Why, when Mrs. Gadder goes away for weeks at a time Mr. Gadder doesn't even write to her, but lets his stenographer type letters saying how lonely he is. What kind of a man would you call that?"

"A very, very busy man," said Mr. Bibbles, with a far-away look in his eyes, "and I'd give $9 in nickles to know what he's up to."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Steam-Heated Bed.

An inventor of Chicago has made an arrangement of mattress combining with it the tubing of a radiator and by hitching this up to the steam or hot-water heating system, the bed is heated.

HE KNEW HOW.

There was an old geezer
And he had a lot of sense,
He started up a business
On a dollar eighty cents.

The dollar for stock
And the eighty for an ad
Brought him three lovely dollars
In a day, by dad.

Well, he bought some more goods
And a little more space,
And he played that system
With a smile on his face.

The customers flocked
To his two-by-four
And soon he had to hustle
For a regular store.

Up on the square
Where the people passed,
He gobbled up a corner
That was all plate glass.

He fixed in the windows
With the best that he had
And told them all about it
In a half page ad.

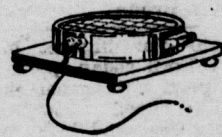

He soon had 'em coming
And he never, never quit,
And he wouldn't cut down
On his ads one bit.

And he's kept things humping
In the town ever since,
And everybody calls him
The Merchant Prince.

Some say it's luck,
But that's all bunk—
Why, he was doing business
When times were punk.

People have to purchase
And the geezer was wise—
For he knew the way to get 'em
Was to advertise. —Ex.

—we do not hesitate to tell what is in our bread. Here it is:

Best wheat flour obtainable. Compressed yeast.
Pure filtered water. Salt. Pure lard. Granulated sugar and condensed milk.

That's the recipe, and if followed carefully we know you can bake mighty fine bread.

But that isn't the point. It is the work we can save you—the fact that you can have it FRESH every day and that, baking as we do in large lots, we can bake it and deliver it to you much CHEAPER.

It's wholesome—it's appetizing—it should be on your table three times every day.

EDITORIALS FROM YOUR FELLOW-CITIZENS

A well-conducted newspaper, such as The Enterprise strives to be, is always more than a distributor of news and advertising announcements. It should also convey expressions on public questions from the citizens of the territory it serves. The desire for public expression is a universal trait, and justly so. The citizen who is interested in the progress of his home town should be willing to voice his opinion on questions of the day. Recognizing this, The Enterprise has determined to publish a series of editorials by citizens of this city. The publication of these editorials does not necessarily mean that this paper is in accord with the opinions expressed and it will not be held responsible for these opinions. The Enterprise is merely acting as a vehicle of public expression. Each editorial will be signed and each writer given the privilege of writing upon any subject he may choose, the only condition being that the subject treated be of general interest and a reasonable degree of brevity observed.

THOUGHTS ON WORSHIP.

Man has always recognized a spiritual power and worshiped, whether in dimness of vision he "bowed down to wood and stone" or in the culture of the Greek philosopher.

Herbert Spencer acknowledges "an eternal energy that works for righteousness." This means a plan, design, and therefore personality of God.

The true motive of church-going is worship—not to "hear a sermon." We get the wheat from the liturgy and Bible—but too often mere chaff from the pulpit. One receives in church, as elsewhere, what he seeks.

The church has developed her standards of worship and teaches you to conform thereto. You do this in society and in lodge. Why not in church? Her rule is simple, though. We kneel in prayer, stand to praise, and sit to listen to the preacher. Which is right, think you—to kneel in prayer or lounge?

The church has authority to teach, and would lead men to worship God in the congregation—she does not merely cater for an audience. The altar, not the pulpit, is her centerpiece.

A non-worshiping, godless people affects the ministry. Moses fell and broke the "tablets of the law" when he saw Israel worshipping the golden calf. Elijah fled from Jezebel when he thought no one else believed. Jesus suffered in Gethsemane because alone. "Could ye not watch with me one hour?"

A hypocrite is a witness to the existence of the true; is a false imitation, but a proof that the real thing is worth while and exists. Going to church as a profession of goodness is hypocrisy mostly found in the warped mind of the godless—not amongst those who seek God's help in His home, and whose prayer is "God be merciful to me a sinner." Jesus spoke ironically to the pharisees when he said, "Ye that are whole (?) need not a physician."

WHAT'S DOING.

It may sound a bit rural, but how really fine a thing are our school days—"where every prospect pleases." Most people have to arrive at senility before the fact dawns on them, but not so with us.

Our school is crowded with pupils from South San Francisco and the surrounding towns of Daly City, Colma, San Bruno, etc., plus many who have tried San Mateo and other high schools but preferred South San Francisco "Hi." Then a short time ago several students came from San Francisco high schools, saying they could receive no adequate instruction there in crowded classes of a hundred or more. So three cheers and a tiger for S. S. F. H. S. The big thing, after all, is being useful, especially to the other fellow. The great Russian, Count Tolstol, called it "service."

NEWS.

Every one is on tiptoe of excitement at the high school, from round-eyed frosh to sage senior, over the play that is to be presented to replenish that constitutionally empty receptacle, the student body treasury. If memory does not fail, it was Avon's bard who said, "The play's the thing that makes the beggar seem the king," and what, pray, is more charming than the world of make-believe? It is the Arabian Nights in real life, with the enchanted carpet of Bagdad transporting us for a brief hour to other sights and scenes.

The editor has not much to tell yet except the big fact that Miss Rose Marie Price of the English department has kindly consented to coach the play, hence its success is assured.

STANFORD ALUMNI PLAN DINNER AND DANCE TONIGHT

The first annual gathering of Stanford alumni and former students of San Mateo county will be held at the Woman's Club house, San Mateo, on El Camino Real on Founder's Day, March 9th. A sumptuous dinner and informal dance will be enjoyed.

Owing to the large representation of alumni and former students in this county, the affair promises to be one of the most representative gatherings of university men and women ever held in this county.

Gatherings such as the one to take place on Founder's Day, although new to this county, are held by former Stanford men and women in all parts of the United States on this day. Greetings are exchanged between the various groups.

The committee in charge of the dinner and dance is composed of Mrs. Carl H. Beal as chairman, Messrs. C. J. Moroney, H. C. Maier, N. E. Gerhart, and C. E. Steinbeck. Mr. Maier of the Bank of Italy, San Mateo, is acting as secretary and treasurer.

HIGH FRESHMAN NEWS.

Monday afternoon the high freshman class held a meeting and nominated candidates for new officers. The nominations were as follows: President, Edwin Kingsland; vice-president, Irene Froom; secretary, Zilpha Dunlap; treasurer, Fletcher Cook.

The three editors were nominated as follows: For jokes, Frank Pellegrini; for games, Fred Junper; for general class notes, Beula O'Rourke.

Florence Gorman, who has been absent from school for the last two weeks on account of illness, has returned and is feeling much better.

At the last meeting some one brought up a new question about the system of having three editors instead of one. In this way we have three times as much news and it makes it much easier for the editors.

STUDENT BODY MEETING.

A student body meeting was held Monday, as it was the first Monday in the month.

Rosalind Gsell gave the treasurer's report and re-read the amendment to the constitution. The amendment read thus: That all checks must be signed by the principal.

Mr. Adams gave a very interesting talk on the standard which must be obtained to receive blocks. It was thought it would be best arranged to have it so they would not be easily secured. His speech was the one feature of interest in a somewhat monotonous session.

WHAT OTHER KIND IS THERE?

Laura (to Mr. Adams)—Have you solved the problem about the round circle yet?

SOUTH CITY VS. PALO ALTO.

The last basket-ball game of the league schedule was played Friday afternoon with Palo Alto. The game was very slow, as it was played on an outdoor court. This also was a disadvantage to our team, as it is not accustomed to an outdoor court. The team played its usual good team work and had plenty of throws at the basket. However, they could not put the ball in.

An Expert on Tact.

A certain negro had been drafted into the army and was serving somewhere in France as an orderly to a colonel.

One day the colonel had to go upon a journey, and calling the negro to him, said:

"Sam, I am going away for several days. I want you to look after things around here and maintain order."

"Yassah."

"But," continued the colonel, "of course, you must remember that you are a colored man and the rest of the boys around here are white; so you will have to be careful not to get into trouble."

"Yassah. I sure ain't going to get into any rookus."

"Well," concluded the colonel, "you will have to use a good deal of tact."

"Yassuh, I certainly will. That's the best thing I do."

After the colonel had left, the orderly looked up a friend of his in camp, who was also a negro, and, relating what the colonel had told him, asked:

"Now, what is that tact? I said I'd use it all right cause I wants to carry out the colonel's orders, but I don't exactly know what it is."

"Well," replied his friend, "I will tell you. I'll illustrate it. For instance, when I was back in the States, I was workin' at the Waldawf. Goin' along the hall one day, I happened to open a bath room door, and there was a lady in there sittin' in the bath tub. I shut that door right quick, and I says:

"Excuse me,—Suh!"

"Now, that 'Excuse me' was just politeness. But that 'Suh' was tact."

A timid, middle-aged lady with an intense horror of dentists has her teeth put in first-class condition. The dentist informs her they will remain so the rest of her life without causing any more trouble.

Some thirty years or so later the lady has more trouble with her teeth, and goes to the same dentist.

Old lady (in disgust), "I thought you told me I would never again have trouble with my teeth, so long as I lived."

Dentist (perplexed), "I did, madam, but I never thought you were going to live forever."—Science and Invention Magazine.

Beautiful Capri

Rock-Hewn Roadway of Capri.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

Capri, once the beautiful island pleasure home of Roman emperors, lies like an hour-glass on its side in the blue waters of the Bay of Naples. The glamor of its old associations still persists, but its appeal to the many tourists who now swarm to its shores is the same, no doubt, as that which drew great Romans to it—its delightful climate, neither stimulating nor enervating, and its wonderful scenery of land and sea and sky.

Capri itself is overflowing with strange interest and beauty—crags, terraced hills, the blue sea ruffled white among half-covered rocks; incomparable sunsets; and among all of nature's beauties the scattered works of man from the ruins of ancient marble palaces to modern villas.

Only a few miles across the sapphire bay Naples and the Neapolitan coast are spread out in all their bewildering features. One writer has described Capri and the neighboring coast as more like a miracle than an accident of nature, while another has complained that the scenery is "too much like theater curtains come to life." Nevertheless, every person who arrives at Naples under fair skies and beholds this littoral for the first time must be affected by its loveliness.

Capri is an esthetic wonder of the world. Its area is but six square miles; but surely nowhere else in the world are so much loveliness and so many interesting things packed in so little space. Artists have always flocked to Capri, each year bringing a fresh brood, confident in its ability to paint the unpaintable cliffs and sea. Some of these lingered on, some to marry the handsome Capri girls, and Howell's Englishman who came to the island for three months and stayed for thirty years is not a unique case in this respect.

The fame of the Blue Grotto has made Capri a show-place, and for upward of a hundred years, day after day, the tide of seask tourists has flowed and ebbed. In spite of these daily caravans, however—in spite of the Anacapri road, the Funicular road, the Strada Krupp, much tasteless villa-building, and—before the war—the vast hordes of Germans, Capri is still essentially unspoiled.

It is true that the Capri women gave up wearing their costume thirty years ago; that the old Greek forms have dropped out of the island speech; that the old days have gone forever; but, despite this, there has been a gain in convenience and comfort of living for both Capresi and foreigners, even at a loss of picturesqueness, and the comforting fact remains that Capri's beauty is rugged and perennial, not to be destroyed by man.

Acquired by Augustus.

Capri was the first point in Campania where the Greeks obtained a foothold, and Augustus possibly did a far-sighted thing by securing it for the empire in B. C. 29, thus preventing its seizure by enemies or by pirates. There was certainly the matter of pirates to be considered. They have always been a pest of the Mediterranean. At the time of Pompey's celebrated campaign against the Mediterranean pirates, 87 B. C., they were well organized and intrenched; they had naval stations and beacon towers in various places. Centuries later the English actually did seize Capri, in 1806, and called it the "Little Gibraltar." They might have held it, perhaps, to this day but for the ill luck and incompetence of Col. Hudson Lowe, later Napoleon's jailer at St. Helena.

The ruin of the Capri Pharos, the ancient lighthouse, so close to the largest of the ruined palaces on Capri, is a paramount point in the archaeology of the island. The selection of Capri by Augustus was most likely biased to a considerable degree by the fact that it was ideally situated for the Pharos. This was one of the most important lighthouses of antiquity.

The existing lower portion of the Capri structure is a mass of burned Roman brick, 40 feet square and 50 feet high, sufficiently conspicuous to show in photographs taken from Monte Solare, at the other end of the island, two miles away. Its original appearance is entirely problematical. It may have had two or three stories. The tower at Boulogne had several stories and was 200 feet high. The Capri tower was not any higher than this, and in all probability not so high, as the elevation of the headland is about 1,000 feet above the sea. It is one of the most valuable and interesting ruins on the entire island.

May Have Had Wireless System. It takes no great stretch of the imagination to believe that Capri was a signal station—an imperial wireless station of ancient Rome. We know that the ancients signaled in various ways and over long distances. They signaled by beacon fires, by beacon smoke, by pigeons, by flags, and by shouting from one sentinel to another. Possibly the Publica acta (Senate Journal) and the Diurna acta (authorized news) were sent to Capri by signal instead of by messenger. We can conceive that such a system, organized most likely under Augustus, must have operated very smoothly after some years of experience and practice.

The mirror system would cost no money to operate, would be easy to use, and by it long signals could be sent. Under the practical rule of the Romans, beacon signaling was doubtless somewhat advanced and by it long signals could be sent, perhaps by making the beacon flare up by adding periodically small quantities of oil.

This is a mere surmise, without basis other than the general advanced character of Roman civilization, which lacked little we have today. The Romans were not artistic, but they were wonderful mechanics, hydraulic engineers, sanitary engineers and great builders of all kinds of structures and highways. They had water pumps. They had perfected shorthand writing. The old writers do not tell us very much of Roman culture. None of them mentions a certain famous surgical instrument found at Pompeii, but it is there just the same.

The distance in an air line between Rome and Capri is 130 miles—too long for direct signaling; but if we look along the coast of the Tyrrhenian sea we find numerous mountains affording points where the signals could be relayed. The frequency of the relaying would depend on the conditions. The highest point on Capri is Monte Solaro 1,980 feet. Signals were probably not sent from here, but from the eastern headland. The Pharos was about 1,000 feet above sea level. A line drawn from the Pharos to Monte Circeo, on the Campanian coast, just grazes the Island of Ischia; but the line of sight would be well above the island, as the summit of Circeo is 1,775 feet.

Favorite Home of Emperors.

The fact that Augustus and Tiberius made Capri their special retreat gives it a deep and lasting significance. The island was the favorite home of them and their families for nearly seventy years. They are the two greatest executives in history ruling consecutively—both clear-headed, hard-working administrators, whose labors established the supremacy of the Roman empire and brought about a wonderful period of peace unequalled in history, before or since. They both lived long, full lives and died natural deaths in an age when murder or enforced suicide or violent death of some sort was the almost invariable end of greatness.

After these towering personalities, Capri drops out of history and for some reason does not seem to have been patronized further by the imperial family.

But though Capri was never revisited by the emperors, the Pharos still guided the precious grain fleets through the channel between the island and the mainland for many centuries.

DOES HE SMILE WITH OR AT FARM BLOC?

The Secret of Success.

"Do you know," beamed the lecturer, to his class on chemistry, "as I came into the room this morning, I read a single word printed on the door, without which not one of you could dream of succeeding in the scientific world?"

"Pull," shouted the class in unison, and the instructor knew that he had taken his motto from the wrong side of the door.—Science and Invention Magazine.

As He Figured It.

"When I was at grandma's," grumbled Bobby, "she used to let me have two pieces of cake."

"Well, she shouldn't have," said his mother; "I think two pieces of cake are too much for little boys. The older you grow the more wisdom you will gain."

Bobby was silenced, but only for a moment.

"Well, ma," he said, "grandma is a good deal older than you are."—Boston Transcript.

Torpedoed.

Jiggs went into a restaurant and asked for an order of poached eggs on toast.

The waiter bellowed into the kitchen, "Two men on a raft."

Jiggs reminded the waiter he wanted the eggs well done and scrambled, whereupon the waiter again yelled back into the kitchen, "Shipwreck that order."—Science and Invention Magazine.

The Horses Not to Blame.

"It's funny how your horses are still afraid of automobiles here," said a city resident to an old farmer.

"I dunno," answered the farmer. "It's none so funny when you think how an automobile must seem to a horse. Wouldn't it seem queer to you if you saw my clothes coming down the road with nothing in 'em?"—Kitty Star.

Princess Mary, Her New Husband and Replica of Wedding Gown

The wedding of Princess Mary to Lord Lascelles in London proved to be the biggest social event since the coronation of her father, King George, in 1911. These pictures, specially posed, are the most recent of Princess Mary and her husband. The wedding gown and veil are replicas of those worn by Princess Mary in the Westminster Abbey ceremony. They were made by Reville of London, Dressmaker to Her Majesty the Queen, imported by the Franklin Simon Company of New York, and are here exhibited by Marion Davis.

FOREST OFFICERS DEPUTIZED BY STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

Forest officers are to be deputies of the State Board of Health. Do you go camping? Last year, according to District Forester Paul G. Redington, over one and one-half million people visited the national forests in California, and most of them camped.

As you no doubt know, nearly all the large streams of California have their headwaters in the national forests. Many of these streams furnish drinking water for numerous cities and towns throughout the state. In view of the ever-increasing number of people who are visiting the mountains, the state officers realize the great danger of contamination to the water supply of these cities and towns. For the purpose of securing better sanitary protection on lands within the national forests, the California State Board of Health and the United States Forest Service have entered into a co-operative agreement whereby the State Board of Health will deputize forest officers as sanitary inspectors. Under the authority vested in these appointments the forest officers will have full power to enforce the state laws, and they will see that sanitary practices are observed on the national forests.

Redington said there are three main things to remember when you go into the mountains: "Be careful to see that your campfire is out before you leave it. Don't pollute the streams. Leave your camp clean for the next person."

"These requirements," he continued, "care with fire and a clean camp, are the signs of a real woodsman, an old-timer in the woods. If you are one of these you need not worry the next time one of the new deputies visits your camp."
